Milliman MedInsight Launches Strategic Alliance Program to Help Healthcare Organizations Thrive in a Competitive Market

Seattle, WA – June 7, 2023 – Milliman MedInsight, Inc., a leading provider of healthcare data and analytics, is proud to announce the launch of the MedInsight Strategic Alliance Program to help organizations boost the value and scalability of their offerings. This program represents a significant step forward in the healthcare industry, as it aims to create a connected ecosystem of business-focused healthcare technology and strategic alliances to revolutionize the future of healthcare.

"At Milliman MedInsight, we are passionate about improving healthcare through data-driven insights," said Scott Ponder, Vice President of Strategic Alliances for Milliman MedInsight. "Our strategic alliance program is a powerful way to work together with other healthcare leaders and innovators to deliver meaningful improvements in healthcare delivery and outcomes. Companies that are part of our alliance program leverage MedInsight's unique platform and data-as-a-service approach to enhance the insights provided to their clients. This approach allows them to create a more comprehensive solution, enabling quality improvement, cost reduction, and smarter decision-making for their clients."

MedInsight's Strategic Alliance Program has already attracted a wide range of industry-leading organizations, including Microsoft, Databricks, Epic, and MCG Health, among others. These companies offer innovative technology, consulting services, and specialized healthcare solutions to help healthcare organizations enhance their offerings and optimize their business operations. Through these alliances, MedInsight customers can gain a competitive edge in the market, improve patient outcomes, and drive meaningful improvements in healthcare delivery. With our specialized healthcare analytics, data, and deep industry experience, Milliman MedInsight is uniquely positioned to help healthcare organizations accelerate data transformation and insights.

"Our Strategic Alliance Program is designed to expand the reach of our data-driven insights and create an ecosystem of innovative alliances that support our customers in improving their outcomes and driving down costs," said Kent Sacia, CEO of Milliman MedInsight. "We are confident that this program will help transform the healthcare industry and improve the lives of countless patients."
